Early Risers Scorn the Weather

Starting early to help his aunt with the gardening, Bobby Cayer, 3, got out his watering can to give special treatment to these hardy daffodils which bloomed this week despite below-freezing temperatures. Mrs. A. T. Stilwell, 3825 Carey Road, didn't spot the flowers in her garden until they were out in full bloom. "Of course I didn't think to look for them because it's the first time anything like this has happened in my garden," she said.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Monteith Won't

'Ask the Real Reason' Bennett Dares Clerk

By PETER BRUTON

Premier Bennett yesterday challenged former legislative law clerk W. Berkeley Monteith to ask for the "real reason" behind his dismissal as a permanent officer of the legislature.

The city lawyer indicated he would not accept the challenge.

Latest move in the firing came when Mr. Monteith charged that he had been fired because he would not contribute to his Social Credit campaign funds in the last provincial election.

"That is not true," retorted the premier. "If Mr. Monteith wants to know the real reason for his dismissal I suggest he ask me to make a public statement."

Replied Mr. Monteith: "I am not remotely interested in what he said and I have no intention of communicating with him."

Mr. Monteith said yesterday that nine days before the last provincial election in September he was "invited" by city prosecutor Alan Bigelow to contribute funds to the campaign expenses of Social Credit in Oak Bay.

He said he explained to Mr. Bigelow that he was resolved to stay clear of politics as he was a permanent officer of the legislature. He then said Mr. Bigelow had stated that he was in receipt of a government job—namely the position of law clerk.

TRICKLED BACK

"I told Mr. Bigelow I would not contribute a single cent to any political party and I have no doubt my answer trickled back to the person who had instigated the solicitation and was a black mark against my name with the Social Credit party," he said.

Asked to comment on the charges Mr. Bigelow said:

"Certainly I laughingly suggested to Berkeley in the course of the last campaign that he might support our local Oak Bay campaign. He declined, saying that he was an officer of the legislature, which to me was a perfectly proper reason, though he needed to give none, and I had forgotten the whole incident.

"I do not see how any one could have known of our conversation unless Mr. Monteith himself discussed it," said Mr. Bigelow.

Premier Bennett said definitely that the dismissal was not caused by "anything to do with campaign funds.

"It's the first I've heard of it," said the premier after yesterday's session of the legislature. "There was a very definite reason (for the firing) and if Mr. Monteith wants me to make a public statement I will do so."

He said personalities were not involved and there was a real reason for the move.

"Cause, Mr. Premier?" asked a reporter.

"No, it's greater than cause," was the reply.

If Mr. Monteith wanted the true facts he should ask for them, preferably by letter, explained Premier Bennett.

A newsman asked if the premier would give the facts even if Mr. Monteith refused to ask for them.

"I'm giving him an opportunity now of asking for them," said the premier.

Premier Bennett denied Mr. Monteith's statement that another reason for his discharge was the fact he disagreed with the premier over a constitutional procedure in 1953.

"That is not true, either," said the premier.

Mr. Monteith last night said the premier's statements to the press were "red herrings"; and that "premier Bennett should answer the charges I have made."

Meanwhile Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said he would bring the subject up in the legislature if Mr. Monteith "makes an affidavit, and supplies me with a copy, of his statements made in the press."

Saud Gets Deal

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower and King Saud announced agreement yesterday on a new five-year lease for the Dhahran air base and on U.S. arms deliveries to Saudi Arabia.

The two leaders declared that "any aggression" against Middle Eastern nations or the intervention "from any source in the affairs of the states of the area would be considered endangering peace and stability. Such actions should be opposed in accordance with the purposes and principles of the United Nations."

Change In Reds Forecast

BONN, Germany, (UP)—Soviet Russia yesterday made "concrete proposals" for settling its differences with West Germany and improving overall east-west relations in a long personal note from Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Adenauer promptly said that a "turning point" in the Soviet attitude toward the west was likely in the near future.

No Longer Needed

Victoria TB Pavilion Closing Next Month

Remaining Patients Going to Mainland

By COURTNEY TOWER

The TB pavilion here will be closed down at the end of March, it was learned last night.

Remaining in-patients, steadily decreasing in number, will be transferred to Vancouver and the big sanitarium at Tranquille, near Kamloops.

Facilities of the 43-bed unit here will revert to Royal Jubilee Hospital, from which it has been "rented" by the provincial government, helping to a slight degree to ease serious overcrowding.

Most of the personnel are Jubilee Hospital staff and will be available for other duties.

There are 22 tuberculosis patients in the pavilion now. The rest of the beds are filled up with overflow cases from Jubilee, where there are even beds set up in corridors and sun porches.

Dr. R. M. Lane, director of the Vancouver Island Chest Centre, told The Daily Colonist the provincial health department was ending its use of the pavilion because it was no longer needed.

There are enough empty beds at Vancouver and Tranquille to handle all Vancouver Island patients, he said.

A dropping of the incidence of the disease and, more especially, a marked decrease in B.C. of the length of hospital treatment per patient, were responsible for the increased number of beds available.

SAME REASON

The TB treatment centre at St. Joseph's Hospital here, built in 1941 with 34 beds, was closed down to TB treatment Dec. 1, 1955, for the same reason, Dr. Lane noted.

Out-patient and clinic work will continue, "although we can see there will be less and less need for it as time goes on," Dr. Lane said.

"In another 10 years there won't be much to do here. I've been working in this line for 10 years and there have been more changes (in new drugs and treatment) than in the preceding 50 years."

Number of B.C. tuberculosis patients in hospital now is less than it was 20 years ago, despite the staggering increase in population, Dr. Lane said.

By the time the move comes, Dr. Lane said, possibly 15 patients will have to be sent to the mainland. The others will have gone to their homes.

Added facilities for the Jubilee, although welcome, "will just be a drop in the bucket," said F. G. Mulliner, chairman of the hospital board.

"We can certainly use the space; we've been crowded past capacity for days," he said. "But it won't appreciably help the situation and we should start now on the new extension (a proposed $1,400,000 wing with 18 beds).

"How we finance it should be secondary. The needs of the community, which is growing by 5,000 a year, should come first."

DUKE OF EDINBURGH

Unionist Warns:

'Depression Is Worse Than Inflation'

By DAVID FRANCIS

A warning of a "tendency toward depression" was issued last night by a trade unionist as the number of unemployed in the Victoria area climbed to a new high this winter of 4,428.

Said Jack McKenzie, president of IWA Local 1-118:

"The federal government is suggesting that their reason for this 'tight money' policy is to combat inflation.

"I would strongly suggest that the tendency toward depression is much more dangerous."

"We have to realize," he continued, "the more people, out of work, the more money taken out of circulation, and then it begins to snowball and snowball into a depression."

The number of jobless increased by 192 this week, and nearly 150 more were laid off this morning from the B.C. Forest Products Ltd. plywood plant with discontinuance of the graveyard shift.

PICTURE BLEAK

This lay-off will increase the number of unemployed woodworkers to more than 400 out of 1,700, Mr. McKenzie reported.

"The picture is very bleak," he said.

"The problem of tight money is hitting all across the Dominion and surely our federal government is not so blind they cannot see it." Mr. McKenzie said.

"It is common knowledge," he said, "that there is a great need for new housing all over the country, a need that could keep the lumber industry at full production for a considerable time."

He added: "Big construction seems to be able to borrow money at reasonable rates of interest, but for house builders, it is vice versa."

Jack Clark, acting manager of the National Employment Office, figures the city is at its seasonal "peak" of unemployment, and expects rehiring "after a few days of good weather."

FEWER JOBLESS

James Moffat, carpenters' union business agent, said his local had 53 men out of work, about two-thirds of last week's total.

Donald S. Bushell, painters' business agent, reported nearly 70 of the 245 members of his local out of work.

Clifford Parker, operating engineers' business agent, remained "optimistic," blaming unemployment among his members on the weather.

Charles E. Peck, business agent for the electrical workers, said employment in that trade was "exceptionally good."

Palace Answers Rumors

Royal Rift? 'It's a Lie!'

LONDON (UP) — Buckingham Palace, reacting with unusual speed, last night officially denied reports of a rift between Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Cmdr. Richard Colville, official palace spokesman, said only three words: "It's a lie."

The terse statement was supported by official palace sources who laughed when told of a report that the handsome duke had been straying.

The Baltimore Sun, in a dispatch from London correspondent Joan Graham, had said:

"The whisper started last summer. It was then hinted by the know-it-alls that the Duke of Edinburgh had more than a passing interest in an unamed woman and was meeting her regularly in the private apartment of Baron, the court photographer who died last fall."

It added that "the rumors are now percolating down to the British masses" though nothing had appeared in the press.

Rumors that all was not perfect in the marriage of the 31-year-old Queen and the dashing duke have been current in some circles in London for two years and more. None of the rumors has been supported by tangible evidence.

One informant with close palace connections commented: "They are a fine normal couple you know. They have an occasional difference of opinion. The duke is nobody's 'yes man.' But they are wonderful parents and there is not the slightest question that theirs is a well-adjusted relationship."

The duke and the Queen have been apart since the duke started on his tour last Oct. 15.

College Picks Blonde

A blonde, blue-eyed beauty, 18-year-old Frances Rigby, 301 St. Lawrence, was crowned Campus Queen at the annual co-ed dance of Victoria College at Crystal Garden last night.

The "absolutely flabbergasted" first-year student had as her princesses runners-up Julie Block and Joanne Rawlings.

Coin Experts 'Mobbed'

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Big ones, little ones; round ones, square ones; gold ones, aluminum ones; thick ones, thin ones—coins in the thousands were taken to Victoria Numismatic Society's meeting last night.

And not one of them was one of the six valuable Canadian coins mentioned in The Daily Colonist Tuesday, which caused the flood of money.

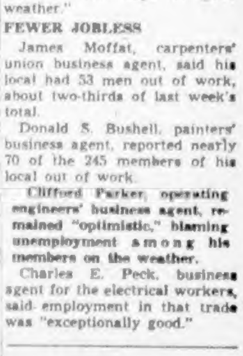
Response from the story amazed Al Klenman, president of the society. Some 70 people phoned and wrote to The Daily Colonist, and scores bothered tellers in Victoria banks with their queries this week.

Although no names were mentioned in the story, about 60 people phoned Merve Weynton, past secretary of the society, to ask his opinion.

And some 400 people patiently queued-up in the society's meeting room and down the staircase at the Moss Street Art Gallery, waiting as long as 90 minutes for their turn.

Checking the coins were nine members of the society—Palmer Dahl, Dave Dawson, Merve Weynton, H. L. Bailey, Ron Green, Al Klenman, Dave McNab, Len Coton and Bob Smith.

And the society's work is not ended yet—members still have to check a list of 46 coins sent in to The Daily Colonist in letters from out of town, and phoned in by people unable to attend the meeting.



Rift Heals

British Prime Minister, Harold Macmillan, who will be 63 tomorrow, is expected to meet President Eisenhower next month to patch up the rift in Anglo-American relations.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A REFEREE has been appointed for the battle between customer and dry-cleaner. From time to time, people storm cleaners' offices with grumbles about chewed-up coats and stained sweaters.

"It was like that when you brought it in," some cleaners argue.

"You ruined it," the customer snaps back.

Now a "B.C. Textile Reference Bureau" is ready to step into the quarrel, push each party gently on the chin, and say who is right.

Members of the panel: Two retailers, two dry-cleaners, someone from the UBC Faculty of Research, a representative of the Canadian Association of Consumers, two textile experts. An independent research laboratory will make tests, if needed.

The bureau would prefer that complaints be channelled through (take a breath) the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, the Vancouver Laundry, Dry Cleaning and Linen Supply Association, Canadian Association of Consumers or the Faculty of Research, UBC.

A lot of people are interested in your moth-eaten coat, which was probably worn threadbare when you brought it to the cleaners, Mac.

And why didn't you tell the girl at the counter you had spilled paint on it? "Home permanent lotion, perfumes, alcohol (?), nail polish remover, however, are quite irremovable," says the Retail Merchants' Association in a news release which sounds a trifle smug in tone.

Anyway, the customer could be wrong. If you want to know for sure, send the garment to: "B.C. Textile Reference Bureau, Room 225, 744 West Hastings Street, Vancouver, 1." All it costs is the two-way postage. And that panel of experts, with perhaps a concealed sneer at the cut of the coat, or the inferior label, will give its judgment.

Members of the bureau donate their time. No names are mentioned. It is possible, says the RMA, "that one day a bureau member might strongly condemn the actions of his own firm."

Garden Notes

No Smog Here —Just Smuts

*By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I noticed in the paper the other day an opinion by some expert to the effect that Victoria had no smog problem because our atmospheric conditions were such that smog couldn't form.

Maybe this stuff floating around in the air isn't true smog; maybe it is just airborne smuts, but whatever it is, it can certainly make an unholy mess of the glass in coldframes and greenhouses.

The amount of precious light lost when the glass becomes covered with this dirty film is almost unbelievable. I borrowed Ernie's photographic light meter one day to check this point in a friend's greenhouse, and it would have been impossible to take a decent picture within the structure.

* * *

Under such low light intensity, plants become "drawn" and skinny, with poor color in the leaves and an inefficient root system, and such plants always perform poorly when planted out later. And once a plant has spindled in this way in its baby stage, there is nothing you can do to restore the short, stocky form necessary for healthy growth.

For the sake of the seedlings within, then, it is most important that the glass be kept clean. After a spell of weather in which the wind has brought a load of solid dirt, it should be washed off straight away with warm water and a detergent. The stuff comes off quite easily if you catch it before it has a chance to dig itself in.

These remarks apply not only to the fortunate owners of coldframes and greenhouses, but to those folks who start their seeds on a sunny kitchen windowsill as well. If the window gets smeared up, the seedlings will suffer permanent injury.

* * *

Even when the glass is kept scrupulously clean, the light intensity in a window is far lower than that in a greenhouse or coldframe, and a certain amount of spindling is inevitable.

Providing the windowsill gets full sun most of the day, seedlings won't suffer too much, but the combination of subnormal light and the warm conditions of the average kitchen or living room is bad business for plants getting beyond the seedling stage. They make lush, soft growth which is terribly susceptible to frost and insect injury when planted out.

* * *

For this reason, I think it is a mug's game to start seed indoors too early. In a coldframe, yes. Plants grow sturdy and hard in the low temperature, good light and free ventilation of a frame, but when the only facilities for raising seeds are indoor windowsills, I don't like to see the seeds started out until about six weeks before planting-out time.

As an example of what I mean, suppose you want some tomato plants to set outside on the Victoria Day holiday weekend. As Victoria Day falls this year on May 20, counting back six weeks would indicate April 6 as a suitable weekend for sowing the seeds. The plants from such a sowing would be much smaller than the ones you buy from greenhouse operators, but they would be much more likely to grow well than plants which had been kept indoors for two months or more.

Sink-in-Every-Room Issue Still Up in Air

City council sent the controversial sink-in-every-room issue back to its health and welfare committee yesterday for further study.

The committee had recommended that council give owners of housekeeping-room establishments three years to comply with the requirement that every housekeeping room have a sink.

But City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady advised council that if it didn't intend the requirement to be enforced, it should be repealed, "then re-enacted when the time comes." As long as the requirement remained in the by-law, he said, "it's always open to a person to go to the police station and lay an information. You can't guarantee that these people won't be prosecuted."

An estimated 10,000,000 persons are expected to see the B.C. Centennial film "The Tall Country," when it is released on a non-theatrical circuit in Canada and the United States this fall, centennial chairman L. J. Wallace said yesterday.

The film will be made by Parry Films Ltd., of Vancouver, whose chief cameraman will be Osmond Borradaile. Former Vancouver radio writer-announcer Keith Cutler will write the script.

Indian Plea Won't Reach The Queen

OTTAWA (CP)—The petition to the Queen from Alberta Indians protesting alleged loss of treaty rights will not be forwarded to London by the Canadian government.

This word was given the Commons Friday by Citizenship Minister Pickersgill. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker immediately charged that the minister's refusal to let the petition reach the Queen appeared to be "a monstrous perversion of his rights."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow gave city council an enthusiastic report yesterday on the zoo that Paul Hertel of Alberni may be invited to bring to Thetis Lake Park, and was authorized to continue negotiations.

Council received two letters of protest against the zoo being established in the park, and one from the SPCA suggesting its B.C. branch be asked for advice.

Victoria, Ald. Edgelow said, had the opportunity to gain a zoo "eventually at no cost whatever." Mr. Hertel needed about $10,000 to build the facilities and move down, but had security and said he could repay that amount in two or three years.

Guard 'Vic West' Fire Chief Asks

Provision of a three-man company in the old Victoria West firehall while the new Point Ellice Bridge is being built this spring is recommended to city council in the annual report of Fire Chief Frank Briers.

Demolition of the present bridge and construction of the new one will take three months, and the fire chief has asked for appointment of 10 additional probationers in order to provide the three-man company.

"Should a fire occur in the industrial or residential area of Victoria West while the Point Ellice bridge is closed to traffic or under construction," the chief observes, "the Victoria West area will be isolated and have very little if any fire protection, should it be a peak traffic hour or the Johnson Street bridge be opened, causing several minutes of delay in response."

MILD REFERENCE

With a new headquarters firehall in sight, the chief's report for the first time in several years makes only a mild reference to it: "The urgent need for a new headquarters firehall is under serious consideration at the present time by your honorable body, and I therefore feel it is no longer necessary for me to elaborate on same."

The report indicates that the chief may see his dream of a new headquarters firehall come true in his final year of service. It says he will retire on superannuation Dec. 31, 1957.

Fire loss in Victoria in 1956, according to the report, was [illegible], second highest in the last 10 years. Lowest was in 1955, when the loss totalled only $55,581, and highest in 1954, when it totalled $500,247. Ten-year average was $192,882.

Number of alarms in 1956 was not far above average at 861.

Largest single loss in 1956 was $214,997, in the MacDonald's Consolidated Ltd. fire.

City Council Briefs

Dog-Leashing Plan Termed Too Drastic

Proposal that dogs should be required to be leashed whenever off their owners' property in Victoria was [illegible] and Ald. Hugh Ramsay.

The proposal was put forward by parks committee, and city council sent it back to the committee so the city solicitor could frame a new by-law section clarifying present regulations.

The regulations already required a dog to be under control at all times, Ald. Ramsay said. City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady said dogs were prohibited from "running at large" but that clarification was needed.

* * *

Meeting in committee of the whole, council decided to hold the line at the 5-per-cent wage increase already offered to city firemen, plus a few fringe benefits, and to go to conciliation if necessary. The firemen asked for an offer closer to the 15-per-cent increase they originally asked for.

* * *

On the recommendation of the Victoria Town Planning Commission, an application for rezoning of a portion of the Royal Jubilee Hospital grounds at Fort and Richmond, so a service station could be built, was rejected.

The commission said the rezoning would be "a sorry and retrograde step."

* * *

Council apparently missed the point of a letter from the Saanich CCF Association, asking it to delegate a speaker for a Feb. 25 forum on "School By-law, Fact or Fantasy?" Instead, council resolved that as many aldermen as possible would attend.

* * *

The Chamber of Commerce retail merchants' group sent a letter complimenting council on deciding that trades-licences should not be issued, without its prior consent, to firms using trading-stamps.

But George F. Gregory wrote expressing another view. He could see nothing wrong with the use of trading stamps except as prohibited by the Criminal Code, he said; their use was no different from the discounts offered by merchants, the one-cent sales and "clearance" sales. Motive of some who objected, he suggested, was to lessen competition and thus increase profits.

* * *

As many aldermen as are able will atend the annual meeting-luncheon of the Victoria Island Publicity Bureau Feb. 22, council decided.

* * *

Council received and filed a letter from Dr. I. W. Hanchard congratulating "keen-minded Ald. Edgelow" on his suggestion that the school board should collect its own taxes.

* * *

The city solicitor was instructed to ask the provincial government to give the city power to take advantage of either the proposed new municipal act or its own private act in relation to trades-licensing or business tax.

"In other words, whichever is more advantageous," Mayor Percy Scurrah said.

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. communists will go into a four-day convention here today in a showdown struggle on future policy.

Welfare Plea

Homes Needed For Old Folk

City welfare administrator William Hooson appealed to Victorians yesterday for help in relieving an acute need for boarding-home accommodation for elderly residents.

"There is a desperate need for boarding homes for elderly people," Mr. Hooson said. "We are appealing to retired nurses and others in single-family homes who can care for one elderly person."

Payment will be $65 a month, or more depending on the care the boarder needs.

Mr. Hooson said there were "up-patients" in the hospitals who could not be released for lack of boarding-home space, and that a good response to the appeal would help relieve hospital overcrowding.

He said residents who could care for an aged man or woman should call on or phone Miss Marjorie Trotter, RN, at the city health and welfare centre at 1947 Cook, 4-0571.

Some 2,000,000 people visit the Lincoln Memorial at Washington, D.C., every year.

Israel Spurns Appeal, Bloc Seeks Sanctions

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) — Israel yesterday rejected President Eisenhower's personal appeal to get its forces out of Egypt.

In another development the powerful Afro-Asian bloc informed Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold it would de- [illegible] Israelis by the UN General Assembly.

A government spokesman in Tel Aviv said Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion had rejected Mr. Eisenhower's "polite but firm" request that Israel withdraw its forces behind the 1949 armistice demarcation line.

Walter Eytan, director of Israel's foreign ministry, issued a statement indicating a deadlock between the UN and the Israelis on the withdrawal issue. He said Israel's determination to remain in the Gaza and Aqaba strips remained unchanged despite the threat of UN sanctions.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the Afro-Asian group informed Hammarskjold of the 27-nation bloc's intention to seek sanctions against Israel at a General Assembly meeting due next Tuesday.

British Columbia Program

THE Speech from the Lieutenant-Governor at the opening of the first session of British Columbia's 25th Legislature was comprehensive and encouraging. Insofar as an administration may the Bennett regime has given a broad indication of what are its legislative plans for this session and the disposition of provincial affairs in the immediate future. Some parts of this program should find general endorsement. In this category comes the new and separate Department of Recreation and Conservation, which bids fair to fill a long existing need. Revitalization of former trade services into a larger Department of Industrial Development, Trade and Commerce will also be welcome for its own sake.

Reorganization of the Mines Department has yet to be explained, but the government has given some indication of its thinking in connection with the whole theme of development, including encouragement for an iron and steel industry within B.C. In the same vein are the moves to set up an oil and gas conservation board, inquiry into assisted feed grain importations and more regard for agriculture. Coupled with the ambitious highway program, on which a practical start has already been made in the Lower Mainland area, on the Trans-Canada Highway and elsewhere, and the success achieved in carrying the Pacific Great Eastern into North Vancouver and northwards towards the Peace River region, these plans show the administration alert to British Columbia's opportunities and in the mind to go ahead where practical means can be found to do so.

Some of the policies indicated will require enabling legislation, at which time no doubt the reasons for their institution will be detailed. Provincial intention of occupying the vacated federal tax on insurance premiums is new and interesting, and does not imply increased taxation as presented. Reaffirmation of the government's decision to establish a home-owners grant of $28 in reduction of local taxes most likely ties in with both provincial assessment and municipal aid policies, which have yet to be detailed. The municipalities seem assured of some further assistance on the basis of their increased populations. Stepped-up apprenticeship training, more teeth in traffic laws, and relief for the handicapped and blind explain themselves.

In sum this program is a progressive one, in keeping with the confident mood of British Columbia. The enabling legislation when presented in the House will set out the program in a more definitive form. The Speech, however, was both confident and encouraging.

Five-Year Drivers' Licences

ALBERTA'S introduction of drivers' licences with a life of five years is being commented on in various parts of the country as an innovation in Canada, a misconception which overlooks the fact that British Columbia has had five-year licences for a long time. "Charter members" of the system, in fact, already are well into their second five-year period. This wouldn't be worth mentioning except for the fact that other provinces whose interest has been aroused might find it useful to examine British Columbia's experience.

On the whole the five-year plan has worked very well. The anticipated advantages have been realized, and are shared by the public and the licensing authority. Re-licensing each year has been reduced to one-fifth the volume there would be under a system of annual renewal; and by the arrangement of expiry dates coinciding with the holder's birthday the work of the issuing offices is spread over the whole year instead of coming in one mad rush at the end of February. The big benefit to the driver is that after taking out or renewing a licence he can forget about it for five years.

The one flaw in the plan is that too many drivers let forgetfulness run beyond the expiry date. Last year when the second five-year period was entered this neglect came close to wrecking the whole scheme. Tens of thousands of drivers, in most cases quite unintentionally, omitted to renew. Consequently the streets and highways were filled with motorists driving illegally, thereby putting themselves in jeopardy not only with the law but also in matters of insurance. The situation became serious enough for the government to consider reverting to the old arrangement of annual renewals; but apparently official warnings proved effective and nothing more has been heard of that.

With the records of more than half a million drivers in its files, the motor licence division would have its work tremendously increased if it had to send out birthday reminders to them all every five years. People are notoriously casual about responsibilities like this when it is left to them to remember dates, and the fact that renewal comes due only once in five years contributes further to forgetfulness. If some other way could be found of bringing this duty to attention at the right time, the system would be almost perfect.

Welcome Easements

ONCE a mere conjecture loaded with financial doubts, the Point Ellice Bridge project is coming along nicely. Not only will its decking soon be showing physically but the financial aspect is pleasing. The net cost is being whittled down by hoped-for contributions from other sources. This is highly satisfactory. It means money left in the lands-sale fund—a wise creation—to be applied towards a new fire hall and, as land sales continue, for other needed city works. The steady application of the policy under Mayor Scurrah's guidance has proved its worth.

The big lift this week came through authorization by the Board of Transport Commissioners of $108,218 as a federal share of the cost of the new span. This was a commendable conclusion to earnest representations made by the city. It also recognized federal acceptance of some responsibility for the Point Ellice structure as a viaduct having defence values as well as being a traffic asset to existing military installations. Allied with this is the grant of $20,000 by the CNR because of its relation to the project. Both contributions are of immense relief to the city.

All that remains now to complete the financial easement is for the province to match the federal grant dollar for dollar. This should be forthcoming in light of the promise given to that effect by the public works minister during last summer's election campaign. There can be no doubt that the government will honor its generous pledge. Taking this for granted, the total effect of all these contributions will be to put the cost to the city of the Point Ellice Bridge at some $400,000, well below the anticipated cost if Victoria had to underwrite it alone. The city's coffers are none too full and this means that the saving can be put to excellent use in other directions.

Interpreting the News

Mr. Hammarskjold's Puzzle

By LLOYD McDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Is the immediate prospect in the Middle East another outbreak or will the next few days see the first constructive steps at settling the seemingly insoluble dispute between Israel and Egypt?

The United Nations General Assembly has given Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold the task of implementing its two resolutions of last weekend calling for an Israeli withdrawal and seeking "other measures" to bring peace to the Suez area. But his role is complicated by the complete lack of agreement on what these "other measures" involve.

Behind it all are two major factors: the big-power rivalry between the United States and Russia in which the oil resources of the Middle East are becoming more and more vital; and the local Arab-Jewish rivalry which, though centuries old, has in the last decade reached its peak through the establishment of the Israeli state.

The combination of these two leads to speculation that the best the UN chief will be able to accomplish will be to keep matters in the negotiating stage. Time is pressing, with the Egyptians saying their patience is exhausted and Israel holding to her demands for guarantees that the UN will protect her from Egyptian aggression if she withdraws.

Israel's position has been reaffirmed in Jerusalem since the resolutions were passed here: she will hold on to the Gaza strip in the north and the Sharm el Sheikh area in the south commanding the Gulf of Aqaba until she is satisfied that her shipping in the gulf will not be blockaded and that Egypt will not be allowed to raid her territory from Gaza.

Egypt's position has been stated equally strongly: she feels that Israel, as an aggressor because of her October invasion of Egyptian territory, must withdraw unconditionally.

The UN resolutions reaffirmed the assembly's November call for Israel to withdraw behind the 1949 armistice line—that is, out of the two areas—but left what should next be done so vaguely worded that Hammarskjold has been assailed from all sides with interpretations.

The vague wording was the result of the United States belief that any resolution spelling out the terms of a settlement would be turned down in the assembly by the Russian and Arab-Asian voting blocs; that it was better to get even negative approval, the two blocs abstained in the vote and did not oppose it, than have the assembly forced out as an intermediary—with the probably inevitable result of the emergency force being withdrawn by the UN.

That would leave the situation where it was last October.

"I think we're ahead"

Naval History

BY FRANK KELLEY

MAJOR F. V. Longstaff has just published a book of facts entitled "H.M.C.S. Naden. Naval Barracks at Esquimalt." It is worth reading, since the Royal Canadian Navy took over from the Royal Navy in 1910 and set out to groom its own ships and inspire the sailor men with the best traditions that British subjects can devise and effect in the continuous performance of duty and service.

There are close-up pictures in the book — naval vessels, one of them bearing the original name "Naden." She was a sailing schooner, was built in 1918 by Wallace Shipyards, North Vancouver, for Dominion Hydrographic Survey. Her length was 60 feet, beam 20 feet, draft 8 feet 7 inches, tonnage 100. She was a tender for the survey ship Lillooet in the college of the dockyard for training in sail. She was given the name of Naden River and that of Naden Harbor, Queen Charlotte Islands. Naden Harbor is entered through Virago Sound (named after H.M. paddle ship which was used by Commander J. C. Prevost when surveying this locality in 1853, the master being Mr. G. H. Inskip).

Four British ships sailed into the Strait of Juan de Fuca in 1846, the year the Oregon Treaty was enacted. From that time until H.M.S. Dockyard was instituted in 1910 there has been a continuous record of naval history on this coast and the name Naden continues to this day.

* * *

An officer of the service apparently contributed ways and means for the author to acquire pertinent facts for historical references concerning naval subjects and the men who go down to the sea in ships for Canada's protection.

The book notes that Canadian destroyers had steamed 723,886 miles in the course of their duties with the United Nations fleet and fired approximately 70,000 rounds of close-range ammunition. More than 3,500 officers and men of the Royal Canadian Navy gained operational experience at sea in the Korean War. A number of medals were awarded, while the only operational casualties were suffered by Iroquois, one man and one officer were killed.

* * *

On December 7, 1954, some 150 cadets in the new training establishment called Venture—which is naval in character and is an experiment to make good the dearth of junior naval officers which is showing itself—were inspected by Vice-Admirals E. R. Mainguy and R. E. Reid, Rear-Admirals V. G. Brodeur, W. B. Creery and J. C. Hibbard. Apparently Royal Roads College did not produce nearly enough executive officers for the expanding naval service, and this situation led to the special effort of Venture to fill the shortage.

Prominent on Page 1 of Major Longstaff's book on Naden Barracks is a foreword signed "H. F. Pullen, Rear Admiral."

More than one hundred years ago the first British ships stood between the rival interests of Russia and the United States and assured that the part we know today as the "West Coast" would remain a part of the Dominion of Canada.

Much earlier were associations with some of Britain's greatest seamen. Brief traces of their story can be found on the walls of St. Paul's and are worth reading. Naden is in the direct tradition of all the "King's ships." Admiral Pullen says the author has contributed more than anyone else to the maritime history of the coast and is to be congratulated.

Reports From Ottawa

MINES Minister Prudham's decision to retire from politics was a one-day wonder which still hasn't been fully explained. On the surface it seems that Prudham simply decided, after an eight years' trial, that he wasn't cut out to be a politician, and handed in his notice.

But that doesn't explain why he's leaving the cabinet before the election.

As I piece the story together, Prudham wanted out mainly because being a politician made him sick—literally. Shy to the point of embarrassment, he dreaded making speeches in the Commons. This may have contributed to physical illness which afflicted him two years ago, and which recurred last year.

"I'm not a professional politician," he told me in discussing his planned retirement. If anything, that was an under-statement. As a departmental administrator he did a reasonably good job, although mining was far removed from his experience.

It is undoubtedly true, as Prudham asserts, that his building-supplies business in Edmonton suffered by his absence in Ottawa. But to a man who is described as a millionaire by his cabinet colleagues, the need to boost sales of wallboard, nails and tarpaper cannot be too important.

* * *

It has been Prime Minister St. Laurent's practice to hold his cabinets intact until after federal elections. He appears to believe—although Mackenzie King didn't—that the government should present unbroken ranks to the electors. Accordingly, Prudham offered to stay on until after the election. That is, he would run again in Edmonton West and would mastermind the Liberal campaign in Alberta.

St. Laurent declined his offer. The date of Prudham's departure from ministerial office is not definite, but the PM has indicated it will be when Parliament is dissolved.

This odd twist to the story means that while the Liberals wouldn't dump Prudham, they are in no mood to delay his departure. Since he's going anyway, it implies, he should go quickly so the party can get someone more dynamic to spark the Grit campaign in Alberta.

This attitude is based on Liberal confidence that a hard slugging campaign in Alberta will win back some seats from Social Credit. The Grits believe Socred support is waning, as witness impressive Liberal gains in the last provincial election. Now the government wants to hit Social Credit hard, and it wants a better field commander than Prudham.

* * *

At this distance it appears the men who will run the federal campaign for the Grits are provincial Liberal leader J. Harper Prowse, whose stock is high in Ottawa, and Mayor William Hawrelak, of Edmonton. The latter will himself be a candidate, probably in the Socred seat of Edmonton East, and if he wins he is almost certain to become Prudham's successor as cabinet minister from Alberta.

I'm told that Prudham is not too happy about this turn of events. Critics back home will say that he quit because Social Credit had him on the run. He would have preferred to run again to confound them, especially if the party made significant gains in Alberta under his leadership.

But there are compensations. At the month's end he and his wife will fly to Africa in an RCAF plane to represent Canada at the birth of the Dominion of Ghana, the former Gold Coast colony. When they return—well, it so happens there is room for another senator from Alberta.

'Winter Is Our Big Time'

By GREGORY CLARK

ON a recent trip into the north, I visited some Indian friends whom I know as guides during the fishing season and who are now on their winter traplines. They were living in what we would consider squalor until we recollect how our own Canadian pioneer ancestors lived, in their log cabins and shanties in the early days of settlement a hundred and more years ago. Indeed, I have often seen equally apparent squalor in the homes of present-day settlers on our frontiers. It is not squalor, but the natural gypsy extemporization of those dwelling in what they know, or hope, to be temporary quarters.

It was an extremely cold day on which I visited them, and their shelters were pretty flimsy. They had erected rough log enclosures, about four to five feet high, and these were roofed by their tents. The tents were erected, in short, inside the low log foundations. Inside they had tin camp stoves, and their beds were the conventional balsam bough mattresses on which their blankets were laid. There was little room, of course, to turn around.

My most familiar friend detected my distress when I joined him in his home.

"You think," he said, "the winter is tough for the Indian. As a matter of fact, it is our best and happiest season. First of all, we never eat better. With the snow, every animal is revealed by his tracks. We do not have to travel very far before we know exactly how many rabbits, partridge, deer, moose are in the area. It is no trick to find them and trap them or shoot them."

"Besides, all we catch keeps, which can't be said of the other seasons of the year. In winter we always have food hung up. Of course our trapping is done in winter, which is our main income, and is possible largely because of the snow and the frozen lakes and ponds. In summer, it is ever so much harder to locate game. When got, it has to be eaten right away or it will spoil. Fish are easier to get. But in summer we are eaten with flies and mosquitoes, rain is a constant disturber of our comfort, there is no trapping, and about all you can say for summer is that it is warm."

I doubt if my Indian friend was pulling my leg. His wife and family looked well-fed and healthy and full of quiet laughter. Meat was hanging on the trees outside. I could see canned goods stashed under boxes and shelves. Reversed beaver skins were stretched on their stretchers, as well as numbers of smaller skins, including even squirrels.

"Winter," he said, "is our big time."

City Notebook

Plaudits for Victoria

By ORMOND MARRION

WHEN the American Institute of Park Executives met last summer in Seattle, W. H. Warren did a masterly job of winning new friends and more fame for Victoria. The city parks administrator encouraged about 200 park officials to come to Victoria, and showed them how well the city deserved its reputation as a city of flowers.

Praise of Victoria, in some cases astonished praise, was the immediate result, and Mr. Warren's investment of time and effort is still paying dividends.

His mail in the past couple of weeks has included one letter asking for information on Victoria's hanging flower-baskets for a proposed article in the New York Times, and another that indicates that Norfolk, Virginia, one of North America's foremost park showplaces, will soon blossom forth with a complimentary imitation of the hanging baskets and window boxes.

Frederick Heutte, superintendent of the Norfolk Bureau of Parks and Forests, says he has ordered 50 baskets for experimental purposes and is placing 100 window boxes on public buildings. And, he says, he is sending Mr. Warren some camellias.

The camellias will delight Mr. Warren, because the city parks department lost its camellia stock, $1,500 worth, in the sudden cold snap last fall.

* * *

CITY Manager C. C. Wyatt also has won another feather for Victoria's cap.

The annual report of the city that he produced last year, easily read and well illustrated with graphs and tabulations, has been awarded a certificate of conformity by the Municipal Finance Officers' Association of the United States and Canada, signifying that the report conforms with the association's high standards.

* * *

THIS column suggested once, in connection with the new zoning by-law passed by city council last year, that new businesses might be placed at a disadvantage in competing with existing businesses by the requirement that they provide off-street parking facilities.

D. Jackson Faustman of Sacramento, consulting traffic engineer engaged by the city council to study Victoria's traffic and parking problems and recommend solutions, has come up with an answer to that suggestion in his report on parking.

"This argument seems to lose some of its weight," Mr. Faustman says, "when it is realized how much of a competitive advantage the availability of parking facilities has been in practice. The experience of the two major department stores in downtown Victoria in providing parking facilities illustrates how effective such facilities can become as business generators."

* * *

ONE day in the heat of summer, when city council's public works committee would like a nice, cool subject to consider, it could do worse than to try to improve the section of the Streets Traffic and Regulation By-Law that governs the removal of ice and snow from sidewalks.

The section says, "Every occupant, and in case there is no occupant, every owner or lessee of every building or land abutting on any sidewalk, shall remove and keep clear at all times all snow, ice, dirt, litter and rubbish from the sidewalk which abuts or fronts upon such building or land, and dispose of same otherwise than on the street."

Every winter the same old joke is trotted out another dozen times: "So what am I supposed to do with my snow, burn it?"

A law that is laughed at is of little enough use, and one that in many instances cannot be obeyed is worse, and perhaps there would be more appetite for both obedience and enforcement if a more reasonable requirement were worked out. A new section might also specify who should be responsible for cleaning the sidewalk outside an apartment block or office building with 30 occupants.

ALDERMAN Geoffrey Edgelow may have gone too far in suggesting that school boards should be required to assess property and collect taxes themselves, completely divorced from municipal operations; although even for this idea he claims support from a number of thinking people. To set up a school district assessment department would be an expensive undertaking, and in the long run would add materially to taxation.

But it has been suggested, a course might be open that would result in a saving to the municipal taxpayer, and still make a clear distinction between school taxation and general taxation. The municipal assessor-collector could send out separate tax notices, based on his own assessment roll but prepared in the name of the school district, and could bill the school district for the cost. And the cost, being part of the normal operation expense of the school board, would presumably be shared to the extent of 50 per cent by the provincial government, instead of being borne entirely by the municipal taxpayer.

Letters to the Editor

Strident Plague

As a person who is neither old nor one who refuses to move ahead with the times, I wish to point out to K. N. Johnson, who writes on speedboats in the Feb. 5 paper, that he has considered only one side of the question.

Water skiing certainly is a "good, clean, wholesome" sport. So is fishing. So is swimming. So is paddling, for [illegible] and cleanliness of the shore of Prospect Lake when small children are playing there than I am for the speedboat artist.

K. N. Johnson advocates using the space in the centre of the lakes for boating and skiing. How does he propose getting to the centre without embarking from the shore?

No, K. N. Johnson, cars and trucks going past on the road, some 80 feet away from the lake, do not make as much noise. No car or truck has ever succeeded in startling the baby, screaming in fright, out of a sound sleep as gunning speedboats have done.

As a member of the Prospect Lake and District Community Association, which is trying to promote the interest of our local teen-agers in the building and sailing of their own sailboats this summer, I will do all I can to help ban the strident plague of speedboats—in the interest of safety.

Poor to Help Poor

Once again we have been given a wonderful concert by the symphony orchestra under the skilful baton of Mr. Gruber, but we were told during the interval that unless funds are available it will be impossible to carry on their program of improvement.

As the ancient saying has it, " It is the poor who help the poor." I therefore appeal to my fellow old-age pensioners to join me in giving one month's pension to the Victoria Symphony Society, 1318 Broad Street.

There are some who can only just get along with this pension, but there must be a great number who although hard-up like myself, could just spare one month's pension to help our symphony, which has been built up into a cultural effort of which any city might well be proud.

Of course some people could well afford to contribute their cheque each month and it is hoped that they will be generous enough to do so.

Where Was Photographer?

Is there not some inaccuracy in "Androcles and the Lion," in your issue of Feb. 6? I have no personal knowledge of the habits of lions, but we have been frequently told by circus "lion-tamers" that the vital thing is never to take your eye off the animal. Quite obviously Ald. Edgelow is not looking at the lion, and quite as obviously the lion is not looking at Ald. Edgelow. Face to face, therefore, is clearly not the condition.

Furthermore, where was the photographer? Unless he had his lens pushed inside the cage through the bars would not the bars appear on his photo. Netting such as appears behind Ald. Edgelow would apparently prevent this action. The scene suggests a trick photo with a stuffed lion. Or possibly the lion was so utterly infuriated at the sight of his keeper that anyone else was completely ignored and perfectly safe. The scene is scarcely Androclean.

Prediction for B.C.

'Builders Face Ruin'

VANCOUVER (BUP) — The Vancouver Province said last night that national housing policies had collapsed in British Columbia and predicted that half of the Lower Mainland area's 1,450 builders, including many "big ones," might be out of business in a matter of months.

The Province said the difficulties of many house-builders and contractors and the growing concern of the public at the impact of "tight money" on home construction had prompted it to investigate the situation, with some "startling" results.

In a crisis unequalled since the National Housing Act was passed in 1944 to make home ownership available to all, Ottawa's "tight-money" policy has reduced the residential construction industry to ruins, the newspaper article charged.

The Province said the crisis had arisen because minimum $6,000 down payments on new houses had "made it next to impossible for any except the well-to-do to get a mortgage of any kind."

It said that as a result, "hundreds of builders now not only can't find customers, but are unable to get the money to stay in business."

The newspaper said that unless there was a "policy switch in the near future," NHA mortgages "will become a thing of the past."

Complaints Grow Over WCB Policy

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. unionists says there is "a consistent pattern of gathering dissatisfaction with the administration of the Workmen's Compensation Board." Nearly 90 officials of unions affiliated with Vancouver Labor Council and B.C. Federation of Labor met here to thresh out "numerous complaints."

$100 Million Accident Bill

VANCOUVER (CP) — Industrial accidents are costing British Columbia almost $100,000,000 a year, J. Edwin Eades, Workmen's Compensation Board chairman, said Thursday.

The Canada Permanent Story in 1956...
COMBINED ASSETS $288,164,545

Serving more people than ever before

C. S. Robertson, President and General Manager, in presenting the 102nd Annual Report, stated in part:

In 1956 our net profits, after taxes, reached an all time high of $1,873,146 and total assets rose above $150,000,000 for the first time. Our mortgage investments are relatively liquid in character, as evidenced by the fact that during 1956 principal repayments amounted to $20,317,532. The net increase of $16,471,636 in the total of our investments in mortgages by the end of the year was achieved as the result of the making of new loans for an aggregate of more than $36,750,000. The people of Canada need loans on single family dwellings most of all, and such loans are the mainstay of our business.

It is interesting to look back a few years and to note that we are now investing three times as much in mortgages as we did in 1946. At that time the average new loan was about $6,000. Exemplifying the conservative nature of our mortgage investments, which is due partly to caution in valuations and partly to the sound practice of requiring regular principal repayments, is the interesting fact that the average loan on our books is only $5,165.

Debentures and Savings Deposits showed an increase of over $2,500,000. It appears that more people are discovering that the Canada Permanent is a sensible place in which to save.

There are two pressing problems in our economy today. One is debt and the other is inflation. A certain amount of debt enables an individual to obtain a house and household goods before he has accumulated sufficient savings to pay for them. An undue amount of debt burdens the individual with payments of such size that he is lucky indeed ever to escape from their burden. During the past year and a half an attempt has been made by those in control of our monetary policy to restrict the growth of debt on the theory that too many individuals were getting too deeply involved for the public good.

It seems to me that two of the soundest methods of controlling inflation are encouragement of savings and encouragement of home ownership. But it is not enough for a few people to exercise thrift: the Government should give encouragement by precept as well as leadership by example, for one of the most important factors in the battle against inflation is psychology. If everbody expects prices to go up, nothing can stop them. On the other hand, if we are conscious of the need of saving for what we buy, there will be a relaxation of the pressure on prices, which will tend to slow down the rate of inflation.

As individuals, therefore, we can all contribute to the necessary stabilizing of our economy by postponing purchases and by encouraging savings.

CANADA PERMANENT
MORTGAGE CORPORATION

Growth shows value of Trust Services

Hon. T. D'Arcy Leonard, Q.C., President, in presenting the 44th Annual Report, stated in part:

The Directors' Report and Financial Statement reflect the most successful year in the Company's history. The ever-widening ambit of our business shows that we are performing a useful, efficient service to a constantly enlarging section of the public.

Canada's continuing expansion throughout 1956 has resulted in new records in national production, foreign trade, employment and other indices of economic activity. The capital investment programme in 1956 contributed substantially to the demand for goods and services, and to the pressure upon the amount of money available for investment. In the result, we have seen a marked rise in interest rates, tending to reduce inflation pressures, and to extend our capital investment programme over a longer period at a more even pace. They are welcome, also, to the beneficiaries of income from trusts and estates who have had a prolonged spell of low interest rates, combined with higher costs of living.

One of the factors that can contribute greatly to our future expansion is immigration. The increase in our national production visualized by the Gordon Report is predicated upon a net immigration varying between a minimum of 50,000 and a maximum of 100,000 persons per annum. I would hope that even the maximum figure would be exceeded. The future that I see for Canada offers advantages to all those willing to come here and contribute their energies and talents to our development.

W. Leo Knowlton, Q.C., General Manager, stated in part:

Assets under administration by the Company for estates, trusts and agencies now total $134,400,000, a net growth of $13,400,000, the largest in any year in the Company's history.

These figures speak well for the efficiency and quality of the work performed by the Company. To deal with estate and trust assets effectively requires experience, training and sound business judgment. Yet, over and above these essentials, we take just as much pride in the reputation we have gained for friendly, personal service. We have always felt that a trust company's relationship with beneficiaries demands a warmth and intimate understanding of individual problems.

It is expected that the Government of Canada will be introducing a new Succession Duty Act. It is to be hoped that consideration will be given to raising the basic value of estates exempt from duty from the present $50,000. The purchasing value of the dollar has decreased since this exemption was first introduced and recognition should be given to this fact.

Message from the Minister

'Is Anything Worth Dying For?'

This is another in a series of articles by Greater Victoria clergymen appearing weekly on the Daily Colonist church page.

By REV. C. B. SMITH
Glad Tidings Tabernacle

Dr. Louis H. Evans in his book "Youth Seeks a Master" shows in his own convincing way that youth today has an overwhelming desire for a captaincy of their lives.

They search for something bigger than themselves that could possess them wholly. One young man on a university campus approached Dr. Evans with the question: "I am sick and tired of expressing myself! I come to ask you, sir, if you know of anyone or anything worth dying for."

Youth wants a Master. The writer then proceeded in six lovely chapters to present Jesus Christ as a Master of the intellect, the possessions, the body, a Master for service, for the human heart and for the city.

Yes, Christ is the Master you seek, though you may not realize it. It is only He who can take control of your life and make it what it should be. Some may clamor for liberty, but soon tire of being a law unto themselves.

World dictators saw the opportunity to harness youth. They knew that youth was willing to be disciplined and trained if only its ideals could be realized.

The hope of building a master race fired the imagination of the German youth. Young Italians thought Mussolini to be as great a leader as the Caesars and responded to his bombastic appeals for service. They dreamed of world conquest.

The appeal to the youth was not for a life of ease or luxury. It was to labor, suffer, and if necessary, to die for the achievement of certain ideals. It is true they were misused, and because of it their suffering has been terrible.

Sir Winston Churchill, the wartime prime minister of Britain, held out no easy way to the people. He said, "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, and sweat and tears." But that speech electrified the nation and her allies.

My young friends, do you realize that Jesus Christ makes the same appeal to you. When you enlist in His army you are sure of success. He has conquered both death and hell, and will lead you on to sure victory. Listen to his words: "Whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple."

In other words, Jesus requires first place in the affections of his disciples.

There must be a readiness to turn from anything that would hinder the most complete obedience. The one who is willing to give himself to Christ with total disregard for his own will may appear to be losing his life, but in reality he shall find life.

'Liquor, Sex' Talk Topic

"Liquor and Sex" will be the topic of a talk by Rev. Douglas Pilkey of Esquimalt United Church, to the Young People's Unions of First and Metropolitan United Churches tomorrow.

The youngsters will meet in the banquet hall at First United Church after attending the 98th anniversary evening service at Metropolitan United Church, to which First United congregation is invited.

Speaker at both of Metropolitan's anniversary services tomorrow an, at an anniversary dinner at 6 p.m. Monday in Pendray Hall, will be Rev. Dr. Geoffrey Glover of Chilliwack, B.C.

Metropolitan United Church was first established here by Methodists in 1859. First church building was at the corner of Pandora and Broad Streets where the Brackman-Ker building now stands.

Cornerstone of present church was laid in 1890.

Entertainment at the anniversary dinner will be provided by vocalist Dr. T. Harry Johns, Miss Lorna Langley, harpist, and Bernard Raine, violinist.

A congregation hymn practice will follow shortened evensong at Christ Church Cathedral tomorrow.

"There are a few lovely hymns and tunes which we don't seem to know here," said Dean Brian Whitlow, "but which thousands of our fellow-churchmen are singing with profit and enjoyment in other parts of the country."

"The singing of hymns," he said, "plays a very ancient and essential part in Christian worship."

Lagging Fan Interest Biggest Boxla Poser

By IAN GLENDAY

VANCOUVER—It appears almost certain that the Inter-City Lacrosse League will again operate as a four-team circuit in the 1957 season and there appears every reason to believe that, generally speaking, the calibre of play will be higher—particulary on the Mainland.

But the one question which remained in doubt during a lengthy discussion at last night's annual meeting here was the question of attendance. The picture was not bright in 1956 and unless changes are made, the lagging attendance probably won't improve.

CHIEF TOPIC

Although league officials tended to minimize the seriousness of the dropping interest at the gate, it was by far the most-discussed question of an otherwise calm meeting.

Attendance figures for 1956 threw little encouragement on the problem of restoring fan interest. Victoria, Nanaimo and New Westminster all showed a drop in attendance with the Shamrocks down 25 per cent from the 1955 figures and almost 45 per cent below the attendance mark for 1954.

Despite boasting the Canadian champion Timbermen, Nanaimo showed a four per cent drop—from 1,604 game average in 1955 to 1,544 last season. New Westminster averaged 556 fans a game last season as compared to 645 in 1955 while the Shamrocks averaged only 2,092 spectators in the 15 games at Memorial Arena as compared to 3,012 in 1955 and whopping per-game average of 3,662 in 1954.

Only Kerrisdale arena, home of the Vancouver Pilseners, recorded an increase and that was almost negligible—706 last season as compared to 625 two years ago.

In a move designed to bring back lacrosse fans, the Victoria club delegate suggested nine rule changes which, they hope, will make the game more attractive to the spectators. Two of their most important suggestions were that two, and not one, judges of play assist the referee, and that a time limit of 30 seconds be imposed on the team which has possession of the ball for making a deliberate shot on goal.

The suggestions will be circulated to all clubs and the league will hold a meeting to discuss the question soon.

Arnie Ferguson, a Shamrock delegate, told the meeting that "it's obvious we're not making the game attractive enough for the fans. Something has to be done and these rule changes might prove a help."

Also under discussion was a Nanaimo proposal that a travelling pool be set up by deducting a certain percentage from the sale of tickets at all four arenas.

The North Shore Indian club, which amalgamated with Pilseners last season, officially withdrew from the league although their franchise will be held open.

BENEFIT GAME

The league accepted a proposal by Doug Rafter of Nanaimo that the Timbermen meet an all-star team from the other three clubs in a pre-season game in which all proceeds will go to the family of Tommy White, Nanaimo player who was killed in a car accident late last year.

Two Victorians, Alex Macdonald and Doug Bambrough, have applied for referee papers and a referees' school will be held on the Lower Island in an effort to recruit more game officials.

It was also reported at the meeting that the ICLL devoted more time and money to the promotion of minor lacrosse in the province than ever before. Officials hope to reap the harvest of their work with the youngsters nl a few years by bringing up a good number of juniors into senior company.

TO LOSE ALLAN?

There was little in the way of player news that could be gleaned from the meeting. The Timbermen, with Harry Wipper again coach, appear set with their biggest worry at the moment the return of speedy Bobby Allan, the import forward who set a league scoring record last season.

Allan is teaching school in Ontario and officials don't know, or won't say, whether he will be returning.

Vancouver Pilseners are expected to have a "new look" by [illegible] a good number of players from the powerful Legion junior club which took the Canadian title in a breeze last season.

There is also a strong rumor circulating that Jake Proctor, the colorful veteran who coached Pils last season, may be at the helm of the Salmonbellies.

OFFICIALS RE-ELECTED

Carl Grauer was re-elected president by the delegates, Bill Dickinson was returned as vice-president and Tommy Gordon was re-elected secretary-treasurer for the sixth straight year.

Commissioners, who were all returned to office, are Art Jefferd and Bus Matthews of the mainland, and Ed Popham, Sr., of Victoria.

Fast Repair Work On Burned Alleys

By JIM TAYLOR

Gibson's Bowladrome will be back to normal within the next two weeks, and all the leagues that have been operating on a swing-shift basis since the fire can revert back to their normal schedule.

Last 16 of the damaged alleys were ripped out yesterday morning, and a crew of carpenters began putting in the new ones in the afternoon, under the supervision of Joe Larson of the Brunswick-Balke Company.

Manager Rod Hendry of Gibson's, visibly pleased with the way things were going, said last night that Larson's crew would have things in order in two weeks at the latest.

"We got a big break when all the material arrived today," he stated. "There won't be any hold-up now, they can get right at it."

With repairs progressing as well as they are, the bowladrome will be ready in plenty of time for the Victoria zone and B.C. tenpin championships. Official confirmation of dates for both tournaments was received during the week.

City winners will be decided in a 24-game series March 2-3 and 9-10, in four six-game blocks alternating at Gibson's and Strathcona Bowling Alleys. Provincial roll-offs will be held March 16 and 17, and the Dominion finals are set for April 5 and 6 in Quebec.

* * *

Jeff Worrall is probably still wondering if he was lucky or unlucky last week. He rolled two highest fivepin series of the week in Greater Victoria, 821 (316) and 953, but missed out on high for the season when he should have been a cinch.

Worrall rolled 383 in the first game of his biggest series, and finished up with 334. But in the middle game he was left with six corner pins and had to settle for 236 when a 280 game would have made him top man this season.

Other high scorers at Esquimalt were: Tony Bishop, 803 (318); D. Mosely, 761; Phil Young, 749; Fred Worsley, 744 (330); Jack Crampton, 743; Hazel Chamberlain, 736 (314), and Norm Martin, 732.

High fivepinners at Capital City Bowladrome were Jim Thorburn, 821; Don Marshall, 805; Ollie Rogers, 797; Jim Douglas, 792; Walter Wigg, 785; Gordie Ball, 778; Doug Romkey, 766; Marge Berry, 757; Art Barry, 734; Bob McKnight, 742; Bob Green, 732; Des Nex, 709; Jerry Brown, 709, and Irma Ronden, 704.

In fivepin action at Strathcona, Victoria High School girls defeated Oak Bay girls, 1,936-1,915 and the Vic High boys downed Oak Bay, 2-863-2,609.

Ken Munn of the Gibson's commercial league posted the high tenpin series for the week, a 585 with a 234 single. John Pickburn, 571; P. Graham, 547; Chuck Bennett, 542 (210) and H. Hazzard, 540 (200) followed Munn in the league.

Herb Chandler led the senior league bowlers at Gibson's with 583 (236); Bill Holness, 576 (222); B. Odgers, 568 (213); R. Bridger, 556 (205); Gordie Bamford, 545; C. Sapala, 551; Len Murrant, 544; Roy Begg, 546; Ken Munn, 577; Wilbur Webb, 546 (210); B. Coates, 547, and Bud Marty, 572, were the other top scorers among the seniors. T. Lenton had a 560 in the mixed league.

At Strathcona, things were a little quieter. Dave Williams had a 561 to take honors for the alleys, followed by Bob Bysiedt, 556; Art Manson, 548; Tommy Nute, 545 (222); Wilf Smith, 544 (217), and Lorne Elves, 557.

Purchasing Commission, champions of last weekend's Civil Service fivepin tournament, were erroneously reported as winners of the Logan Mayhew Trophy, when they actually won the Honorable Robert Mayhew Trophy.

Jerry Girrard, who was in charge of the tournament, pointed out the error last night, and also reported that an 867 series had been rolled by Lela Yetman, but was overlooked in the first check of scoresheets.

Badminton Form Prevails—City Junior Hope Injured

Things went just about as expected in hte second day's play in the B.C. Open badminton championships at the Amphion Street courts yesterday with all the seeded players posting victories, but one of Victoria's big hopes for singles honors may be out of the competition.

Harvey Hurd, the 16-year-old junior star playing senior singles for the experience, won his opening match, 15-8, 18-14, and 15-7, but sprained his ankle in the process and had to be carried from the court.

Hurd, who is scheduled to play in the Canadian junior finals in the East next month, had his ankle taped up and returned for a doubles match, but it was badly swollen at the finish, and he is a doubtful starter today.

First-seeded Dave McTaggart of Vancouver took his opening match in convincing fashion in the men's singles, thumping E. Lamont, 15-0, 15-2.

Defending champion Johnny Bouck, second-seeded this year, downed Warren Bell of Victoria, 15-2, 15-7; the third-ranking Don Davis of Seattle beat T. Johnston, 15-5, 15-2, and flashy Bert Fergus of Vancouver won from N. Hughes, 15-6, 15-8.

DARK-HORSE WINS

Carmen Woolsey, the dark-horse of the event, defeated R. Hoadley, 15-2, 15-2. Woolsey is present, Calgary, Alberta and Saskatchewan singles king.

Lois Reid, fifth-ranked among women players in Canada and first-seeded in the tournament, defeated Miss McGregor, 11-3, 11-0. Fourth-ranking Jean Bardsley advanced with an 11-6, 4-11, 11-8 win over Miss Wise, and Claire Lovatt, second-ranked, trounced J. Kelly of Victoria, 11-0, 11-2.

Gives Up Track For Side-Burns

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A Penn track star resigned from the university team because his coach insisted he cut off his Elvis Presley-type side-burns and in general conform with the other members of the squad.

Bruce Dern, a member of the Penn two-mile relay team, informed coach Ken Doherty in a letter that by being a conformist he lost his individuality and therefore was turning in his track suit.

Dern who recently appeared as Caleb in an off-Broadway rendition of the play East of Eden, claimed he needed the sideburns to further his acting career.

Rugger Teams Play for Cup

Victoria Rugby Union, which has been beset by cancellations all through the season, has scrapped the remainder of the regular league schedule and will begin cup play this afternoon.

Oak Bay Wanderers and JBAA clash at Macdonald Park this afternoon at 2.30 in a sudden-death game for the Rose Cup and the city championship. The same two clubs will play a best-of-three series for the Barnard Cup later this month.

Vikings, Cadets Romp InBasketballTourney

Victoria College Vikings, outstanding favorites to win the Inter - Scholastic Basketball Tournament, proved last night their rating was deserved as they walloped the disorganized Victoria High School Totems, 71-38, in the second game of the four-team meet.

In the first game, the taller Royal Roads entry made full use of its extra size by knocking off Oak Bay High School, 70-33.

FINAL TONIGHT

Tonight, at the Vic High gymnasium, it will be the Vikings against the Cadets in the final at 8.30. An hour earlier, Victoria and Oak Bay will decide third and fourth places.

Vikings, who had beaten Totems twice previously this season, saved this game for their finest performance. With Waldo Skillings and Bob Tomlinson clearing the boards, the Victoria High team had little chance to stay close.

Totems did manage to stay on even terms for the first quarter, but gradually faded under the steady pressure. Led by Skillings and Tomlinson, each of whom scored 18 points, the Vikings broke down the Totem defences and pulled away for an easy win.

NO TROUBLE

Cadets also controlled the boards. Grabbing a 10-point lead by half-time, they added 42 points in the second half as Gary Jacob set the pace with 20 points.

Peter Rosewarn had 16 points while Jack Showers did most of the Oak Bay damage with his 14 points.

Francis' First Period Vital in Cougar Loss

Seattle Americans, whose seemingly insurmountable early-season lead in the western division of the Western Hockey League has dwindled to a mere four points, showed few traces of their recent slump last night as they blanked Victoria Cougars, 2-0, before 3,871 fans at Memorial Arena.

Americans, who went through seven winless games before downing New Westminster Royals, 6-2, on home ice Wednesday night, had to have the win last night to stay four points up on the Royals, who defeated Edmonton, 6-5, on the prairies.

Last night's scores: Seattle 2 at VICTORIA 0; New Westminster 6 at Edmonton 5; Vancouver 0 at Winnipeg 1.

Next games tonight: VICTORIA at Seattle, New Westminster at Calgary, Vancouver at Brandon.

HIS FAVORITES

It was only the second shutout of the season for Emile Francis, and both have come at the expense of the Cougars.

Francis and Marcel Pelletier were chosen as the outstanding players of the game in a special feature of "Kiwanis Night" at the arena, and "The Cat" would have deserved the selection if he had only played the first 10 minutes of the game.

In those 10 minutes he managed to rob the Cougars blind on at least five occasions, blocking three shots he had no right to be near and two more he didn't even see. His total for the night was 29 stops, seven less than Pelletier, whose fine performance was at times the only thing that kept the Cougars in contention.

PENALTIES HURT

Cougars, who could have moved out of the cellar in the western division with a victory, held a wide edge in play in a free-skating first period, but a pair of penalties cost them a goal.

With Larry Leach off for boarding and Doug Anderson sitting out a hooking penalty, scoring-leader Guyle Fielder fired his 25th goal and his 88th point of the season, driving a shot past Pelletier from directly in front at 11.09.

It was all the Americans needed, but Bruce Lea added another goal late in the third period, knocking in a rebound off a breakaway shot by Art Hart with Pelletier flat on the ice.

Cougars were skating hard from start to finish, but lost some golden chances with careless passing in the Seattle zone. However, Colin Kilburn had a couple of things to be cheerful about.

Kilburn shuffled his lineup, putting Don Chiupka on right wing in place of George Ranieri, recalled by Boston Bruins, and Chiupka showed to good advantage.

Ray Powell, the play-making centre who has been out with a broken arm for the past two weeks, returned to take a few turns, and if the arm bothered him, he didn't show it by his play. Gordie Wilson also took his full turn on the ice without any apparent ill effects to his knee.

Cougars were going at their best clip of the game just before Hart broke away, as they kept the puck inside the Seattle line for almost two minutes, but a good many of their shots went wide, and Francis was there to block the few that were on.

Check by Lindsay Felt in Victoria

A jarring check by Ted Lindsay which splintered the bones in Jerry Toppazzini's nose during Thursday's NHL game between Detroit Red Wings and Boston Bruins was felt all the way to Victoria.

Certain to be without their top point-getter for the balance of the season, the Bruins immediately called up ex-Cougar Bob Beckett from Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League and rightwinger George Ranieri of the Victoria Cougars.

Ranieri, who will undoubtedly stay with Boston for the balance of the season if he shows enough to help, left yesterday by plane for Boston and may reach there in time to see action against Canadiens in today's televised game.

His recall cut the Cougar roster to the maximum of 14 players, not counting goalkeepers.

But Canucks Lose

Surprising Royals Bowl Over Flyers

New Westminster's amazing Royals, playing their sixth game in eight nights and minus veteran stars Max McNab and Blinky Boyce, skated to a well-earned 6-5 win over the Flyers at Edmonton last night to stay in close contention for first place in the Western Division of the Western Hockey League.

In other WHL inter-sectional action, Winnipeg Warriors blanked Vancouver Canucks, who had scored 13 goals in their two previous games this week, 1-0, at Winnipeg.

A crowd of 3,904 saw the Royals take the lead four times before they made it stick.

BENTLEY GOOD

Helped no end by brilliant goaling by Bev Bentley in the first two periods, the Royals found enough skate left in the final 20 minutes to take a 6-4 lead and then hold off a desperate Flyer rally.

Gordie Fashoway scored his 30th and 31st goals, making it six seasons in a row in which he has scored more than 30 in WHL play. In fact, he has scored less than 43 goals in only one of his six complete WHL seasons, and that time had 35.

Royals were no little upset in the second period when referee Vic Lindquist gave Bentley two dubious penalties, the first for holding the puck and the second for juggling the puck into the crowd.

On the last call, the Royals tossed, by actual count, 14 sticks on the ice in protest but escaped further penalty. Flyers tied the score at 4-4 during Bentley's second penalty.

ONE BOOT ENOUGH

Goalkeeper Ray Mikulan made one mistake at Winnipeg after playing exceptionally well for 57 minutes, but it was enough to sink the patient Canucks, who waited the full 60 minutes for the break that never came.

Murray Wilkie got the game's only goal, a quick shot which caught everyone by surprise. Wilkie skated straight up the middle from his own zone and used Hugh Currie as a shield as he loosed his shot.

Wilkie and Richie Van Impe had been leading the Warrior attack but both had been kept out by Mikulan's fine play in the first two periods.

Warriors outshot Canucks, 25-18, in handing the Vancouver club its first defeat in its last seven games on the Prairies.

Tony Folk One of Six Skips Remaining in Consols Final

NELSON — Dick Topping, generally picked as the skip most likely to give Reg Stone trouble, proved yesterday evening that the veteran Trail shot-maker can be beaten by scoring a fine 9-7 win in the second of the two knockout competitions to decide the B.C. British Consols curling champion.

Stone's defeat and an 8-6 victory for Kimberley's Ray Mathieson over Vancouver's Tom Coates left six rinks still in the battle.

Coates and the previously-unbeaten Stone had reached the final of the first competition late Thursday night, Stone knocking off Clarence Larson, Fraser Valley zone champion from Chilliwack, while Coates trounced Topping, 13-4.

PLAYOFF ASSURED

Yesterday's results in the first round of the second knockout made it certain that there will be a best-of-three playoff Sunday before the provincial Brier rink is determined.

Joining, Topping and Mathieson in the semi-finals of the second Consols competition were Tony Folk of Duncan and Bill Croft of Summerland, Vancouver Island and South Central zone winners, respectively.

Folk, who lost a stirring 5-4 running game to Topping in the first competition, kept his Brier hopes alive with an 8-3 win over Bill Carmichael of Prince George, Northern zone champion.

That sidelined Carmichael along with Larson, who bowed out when Croft beat him, 9-5.

Meanwhile, Stone, who has brother Roy and Buzz McGibney still with him from his former Brier rinks, threatened to make it a sweep by reaching the finals in both primary events of the B.C. Bonspiel.

He skipped his rink to a 7-2 triumph over Milt Ryalls of Nelson in the semi-finals of "A" primary and to a 9-7 win over H. E. Wheeler of Cranbrook in the semi-finals of "B" primary.

In the "A" secondary event, it will be Folk against Dick Palmer of Nelson in the final. Folk evened the score with Topping by getting a 6-4 win in the semis while Palmer upset Mathieson, 8-6.

Topping gained the final in "B" secondary by trimming Bisgrove, 11-4. Carmichael and Jim Harvey of Nelson were the other semi-finalists.

Late draws Friday were to decide semi-finalists in the two tertiary events. Still alive after Friday afternoon's games were Kirby Moysey of Victoria, who defeated R. Chandler of Nelson, 9-6, to reach the eights, Bill Karjala of Nanaimo, and Folk.

Folk and Moysey were in "B" tertiary while Karjala was playing in both third events.

Bonspiel finals are all scheduled for Saturday.

'One of Those Things' Says Battered Topper

DETROIT (AP) — Battered and bruised Jerry Toppazzini of Boston Bruins said Friday he does not blame Ted Lindsay for the injuries that sidelined him for the rest of the National Hockey League season.

"It was just one of those things," said the Bruin right winger through puffed lips. "I'm sure Ted didn't do it intentionally."

BAD INJURY

Still shaken 15 hours after his collision with the Detroit Red Wing player near the end of Thursday night's game at Detroit, Toppazzini was being treated by a team of doctors for multiple facial lacerations and what the doctors described as complicated pulverizing fractures that shattered the bones of and about his nose.

But the veteran Red Wing player visited Toppazzini in the first aid room and apologized. The Boston right winger accepted the apology of the player who had been his teammate in Detroit for part of last season.

"Nobody feels any worse about it than I do," said Lindsay.

"We're all in hockey to make a living, not to maim anyone."

In an effort to plug up the void created by Toppazzini's loss, the Bruins have called up forwards Bob Beckett and George Ranieri.

Beckett, a 20-year-old handyman who has played with the Quebec Aces of the Quebec League.

Ranieri, 21, has been with the Victoria Cougars of the Western League.

Longden Shut Out, Total Still 4,992

ARCADIA, Calif. — Johnny Longden still needs eight winners to reach his once thought impossible goal of 5,000.

The veteran jockey failed to win in four rides Friday, getting only a second in the seventh race, as Willie Shoemaker stole the show by winning the fifth, sixth and eighth races.

Track officials are planning a big celebration when Longden rides into the winner's circle for the 5,000th time. That's expected to happen long before the meet ends, three weeks from now.

UBC May Have to Give Up Outside Athletic Program

The University of British Columbia may be forced to drop its entire extramural athletic program, a students' spokesman said Friday.

[illegible] mittee appointed to study the university's athletic program said students are paying about $33,000 a year for outside sports activities "yet every year the crowds get smaller. We feel that they could put their money into something more gratifying."

If UBC decided to abandon its outside athletic program, it would end intercollegiate competition with other Canadian universities and the Evergreen Conference, a group of universities in the Pacific Northwest of the United States. The Evergreen Conference holds competitions in basketball, football, skiing and swimming.

Don Jabour, president of the students' council, said it would be unfair to ask the 7,400 students for more money. The UBC administration, which pays for the School of Physical Education and meets expenses of sports competition within the campus, hasn't any additional money, he added.

[illegible] committee would be submitted to a vote among students, Jabour said.

Champions to Defend In City Swim Meet

All three of last year's Jack Todd Trophy winners will be back to defend their laurels tonight in the annual city amateur swimming championships at the Crystal Garden.

Bob Wheaton won one of the trophies with a victory in the boys' medley race last year, and Gail Parker and Alice Genge shared the girls' trophy as they tied in their medley.

A near-capacity crowd was assured for the championships last night. Jim McCague, president of the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, sponsor of the event, said that his club, the YMCA swimmers, and a six-man contingent from the navy had filled the lists for almost every race in the 32-event gala.

In addition to the medley trophy races, Canadian Legion Trophies are also up for competition in the junior boys' and girls' relay races.

Starting time is 7 p.m.

Worried Couple Kills Child Before Leaping to Death

NEW YORK (UP) — A Brooklyn couple, plagued by sickness and debts, strangled their five-year-old daughter yesterday and then plunged to death from a 15-storey apartment building.

Police said Joseph Kennedy, 46, and his wife, Nan, 45, stayed in their top story apartment for three hours after the death of their only child, then trudged up a flight of stairs to the roof and stepped onto a brick parapet.

Fingerprints on a foot-high [illegible] parapet indicated they had dangled side by side for a moment before plunging to the concrete sidewalk.

The body of their daughter, Valerie, was found on a bed in their neatly-kept apartment.

Police said sickness had plagued the Kennedy's throughout their seven-year marriage. Kennedy, described by a friend as a brilliant financial analyst had been unable to work because of a stomach ailment. His wife had asthma. Valerie also had been ill.

Public Safety 'Menaced By This Man'

"This man is a menace to public safety. I would suggest that in the interest of others and for his own good, he should be suspended from driving for as long a period as may be."

These words by defence counsel preceded sentencing yesterday in Colwood police court of Robert Thomson, 924 Market, on a charge of criminally negligent driving.

Thomson was sentenced by Magistrate A. I. Thomas to a fine of $500 or three months in default, and $27.50 costs.

In addition, Thomson's driver's licence was suspended for three years.

The magistrate handed down this sentence because he felt that accused had "no ability to drive." The man's circumstances led him to impose the maximum fine rather than a jail sentence. He agreed with defence counsel James Proudfoot that Thomson should be kept off the roads.

On a second charge of violating restrictions on his licence, Thomson was fined an additional $25.

Charges against Thomson arose from an accident early on Jan. 7 when the wood truck he was driving collided with a small English car. Injured in the latter were Gordon L. McIntosh, 2047 Chaucer, and H. J. Walter, 2070 Rock Bay, both teachers at the Belmont Junior-Senior High School.

* * *

In the same court Richard Jewsbury, 1122 Meares, was fined $10 and $3 costs for leaving his truck parked on the travelled portion of Craigflower Road on Feb. 1, thereby blocking traffic.

* * *

In city police court yesterday Ronald Hodges, 590 Boleskine, was given a suspended sentence and placed under a bond of $500 for six months after pleading guilty to theft of lumber from a Victoria yard.

Granting suspension, Magistrate Henry C. Hall expressed some surprise at the very good probation report on Hodges. He said he was satisfied the theft, "which must be condemned," must have been prompted by financial difficulties.

* * *

A city by-law in 1938 proved broad enough in scope to bring a conviction in city court against a Victoria television firm.

Edward Drew TV Ltd., 745 View, was convicted of erecting a TV antenna without first obtaining a building permit.

In the interpretation of Magistrate Hall, the 18-year-old by-law covered "any structure."

Sentence in this case, and disposition of four other similar charges, was remanded to Feb. 12.

* * *

Leo Toutant, Metchosin, pleaded guilty in city court to driving while under suspension. With a warning that "next time there would be no fine, just a jail sentence," Magistrate Hall fined him $50.

* * *

Four men pleaded guilty to failing to file income tax returns for 1955, and each was fined $25 and costs. They were George A. Perigo, 1605 Belcher; Peter Motek, 2912 Prior; Idrys B. Saunders, 1277 Kings Road, and Earl Large, 1624 Richmond.

ENDS TONIGHT
British Lion Films Presents
"John and Julie"
Starring MOIRA LISTER
NOELLE MIDDLETON

Here is a terrific picture for the whole family to enjoy together which we can unreservedly recommend. The scenery of England, the "shots" of London and its pageantry, the humour and pathos of its "characters" all blend into a picture which will send you home having laughed a bit and cried a little. When two children run away to see the Coronation to decide whether the Queen actually does wear her crown "all the time" they run into adventures aplenty, especially when they look up Uncle Ben at Knightsbridge Barracks as he prepares to ride out with the Sovereign's Escort. Come prepared to enjoy yourself to the limit. Yes, it's Technicolor too.

Stocks Sink To Near 1956 Bottom

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market fell again Friday, almost touching its 1956 bottom, but made a partial recovery in late trading.

Prices declined at the start and a sinking spell about an hour after the opening drove prices down to their worst of the day.

A number of blue chips hit 1956-57 lows and among them was General Motors which broke 40 for the first time since the stock was split three-for-one in 1955.

In subsequent trading, however, GM and a number of other issues came back. A few thin gains were established.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 90 cents to $17[illegible].

Rising Canadian stocks included Distillers Seagrams ahead ⅛. Dropping were Hudson Bay Mining off 2¼, International Nickel 1⅛, Aluminium Ltd ⅞, McIntyre ¾, Granby Mining ⅛ and Dome Mines ⅛.

On the American stock exchange Canadian stocks moving ahead included Eureka, Molybdenite and Fargo Oil up 1/16 each. Shawinigan dropped ⅛, Preston East Dome ⅛, Richwell Petroleums ⅛ and Jupiter Oils 1/16.

Fifth Decline

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market settled down Friday for its fifth decline in six sessions. Industrials with an index loss of more than 2⅓ points led the decline.

The setback, however, was not as determined as some of the previous ones this month. The number of issues traded was not as great and other than industrials the range of losses was narrow.

Trading was the slowest in seven days with a final volume of 2,971,000 shares compared with 4,6[illegible],000 Thursday.

Base metals and western oils improved slightly in closing trading but industrials closed at their low for the day and their index was at a 1957 low.

Industrial losses ranged to four points led by Pembina Pipe Line which closed at 50. Trans Mountain Pipe Line lost 2⅛ points at 107.

Hudson Bay was off 1⅛ at 79½ and International Nickel dipped 1¼ to 98⅛ among senior base metals. Junior losses ranged to 15 cents while a couple of issues on light trading added 25 cents.

Western oils were relatively quiet although Security gained 25 cents at $4.05 and Canadian Pipe lines added 20 cents to $2.70.

Losses ranged to 15 cents but held a majority.

Prices Drift

LONDON (Reuters)—Prices drifted indecisively on the London stock market yesterday. Reduction in the bank rate Thursday had been widely discounted over the last few weeks and it left the market in a state of anticlimax.

However, news of a sharp fall in the treasury bill rate tended to stabilize conditions.

Gilts developed a firmer appearance after earlier irregularity. Industrials were quiet but tended to improve slightly in later trading. Kaffirs were harder in places but coppers were quiet and occasionally easier.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trade was quiet yesterday with slow foreign demand for Canadian coarse grains on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

The lull in trading was attributed to increased competition from the United States and Argentina. Both were offering cheaper prices.

Commercial demand for flax continued active with export houses [illegible]. However, offerings were increased and prices were irregular and lower at times. Oats and barley showed domestic support. There was some buying of oats by U.S. interests. Prices moved narrowly.

Rye prices were erratic in local trade.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included Belgium 500,000 bushels, United Kingdom 405,000, Japan 380,000.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were all unchanged.

[illegible]

CHICAGO (AP)—A weak tone in soybeans had an unsettling influence on the rest of the grain market on the Board of Trade yesterday.

Corn acted better than other grains largely on short covering after the extreme weakness earlier this week. Wheat held within a narrow price range, mostly a little lower.

Present capacity at Bamberton is 2,300,000 barrels of cement. The estimated cost of the new plant is $4,000,000.

Leaner Pork

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Canadians are making "insistent demands" for leaner pork, meat packers have been told.

R. Puttick of Burns and Co. Limited, Calgary, told the 37th annual meeting of the Meat Packers Council of Canada that leaner, meatier pork must be produced if the industry is to remain prosperous.

During 1956 practically every phase of industry and business, including agriculture, showed improvement. This is shown in the annual review of business conditions just released by the provincial bureau of statistics.

Lone Councillor Bids in Vain To Break Nursing Home Veto

Zoning By-Law Ban To Remain in Force

By ORMOND MARRION

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson tried determinedly but in vain yesterday to convince city council that establishment of nursing homes and private hospitals should be allowed in Victoria's single-family dwelling districts, including the Rockland area.

The rest of council voted solidly against the proposal.

The Victoria Town Planning Commission recommended against changing the provisions of the new zoning by-law passed last year, and council also had before it a letter from the Real Estate Board of Victoria opposing the change.

Victoria, said Ald. Wilson, had more old people than "almost anywhere in the world," and needed more nursing-home space. New buildings were too expensive, but in the single family areas were big old houses, too big for single families to occupy nowadays, that were suitable.

Existing nursing homes were well taken care of, and "look [illegible] the best [illegible]," she said.

Five of the eight private hospitals and several of the [illegible] in the city, Ald. Wilson said, were now operating as "non-conforming users" in single family zones.

[illegible] persons were waiting for hospital beds and couldn't get into the [illegible] hospitals because [illegible] cases in the acute hospitals couldn't get into private hospitals.

One of the arguments against nursing homes in the Rockland area had been that residents didn't like to see sick people outside in wheel chairs or staring from windows. That, Ald. Wilson said, was dreadful.

Ald. J. Donald Smith supported Ald. Wilson, but left before a vote was taken.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow [illegible] the attack on the proposal.

Persons who bought homes, assured that the residential character of their neighborhoods would be protected, must be protected, he said. As far as nursing homes were concerned, Victoria was taking almost the complete load. Oak Bay had none and Esquimalt had none.

TIMES CHANGE

Ald. Wilson agreed that "Victoria has done more than its share." But, she said, "the home owner who bought a house 50 years ago can't expect the district to be the same now as it was then."

Besides, she said, she didn't think a nursing home would lower surrounding property values at all.

When Ald. Wilson referred again to [illegible] persons being unable to get into hospital, Mayor [illegible] suggested the outside municipalities had some responsibility too.

Ald. Edgelow added that "that's a government problem. It's up to the government to see that people who are a little better than others are released from hospital."

Also, he said, the hospitals were not full of Victoria people alone. The problem wouldn't [illegible] until the other [illegible] realized they must take more responsibility.

'It'll Confuse Public'

McEwen Loses Bid To Halt Firehall Vote

City council yesterday voted in favor of submitting a money by-law to the ratepayers March 9 on spending up to $[illegible] from land-sales funds on construction of a new headquarters firehall and, if necessary, acquisition of property.

[illegible]

"It's going to confuse the public to stick in another by-law on the side," Ald. McEwen said. Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow replied that he didn't think "we should assume our voters are that stupid."

Ald. McEwen contended that it would be "a sad mistake" to build a firehall by itself, that it should be combined with a city hall and police station. But [illegible]

[illegible]

"If it's to be on Pandora, the people will never vote for it," said Ald. McEwen.

The Lady Drops a Hint

By PETER BRUTON
Colonist Legislative Reporter

AUDITIONS? Two new Social Credit MLAs yesterday told the legislature just how much they knew about the subject of recreation and conservation.

Perhaps it was just a coincidence that the government intends establishing a separate department to look after all aspects of these subjects this session. And with the department will go a new cabinet ministry.

If there were doubt that Mrs. Buda Brown would be made the new minister it was certainly removed in the minds of political observers after yesterday's session. The odds favoring her rose sharply.

She won hands down in a battle of wits with Comox's Dan Campbell in explaining her views on what was needed in the matter of recreation and conservation.

Mrs. Brown, a veteran Vancouver park board member who beat Liberal leader Arthur Laing in Vancouver-Point Grey at the last election, spoke of parks, Indian reserves, historical sites, the tourist industry, and youth affairs.

Mr. Campbell devoted eight pages of his speech to the same subject, an indication that he too would like the job. But he fell way behind Mrs. Brown, who spent about twice as much time on the question.

SH-BOOM: Two days have passed and not one member of the legislative press gallery has fallen down the stairs leading up to the gallery above Mr. Speaker.

It's more or less a record.

Every session some reporter, anxious to outdo his opponents in the race to the telephones, takes an unsteady aim at the top step and crashes to the bottom of the pit—with the accompanying roar of an atom bomb.

But this year perhaps the reporters are being more careful. It's the first time in years that there hasn't been a doctor in the House.

REVERSED CHARGES: Appointment of Dr. Gilbert Kennedy of the law faculty at UBC as deputy attorney-general places two B.C. cabinet ministers in an odd position.

Both Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who will be Dr. Kennedy's boss, and Education Minister Leslie Peterson were taught law at UBC by the new deputy.

ANYTHING YOU CAN DO . . . : The battle of the flowers took place on the floor of the legislature yesterday.

Premier Bennett was responsible for the vase of yellow daffodils which graced the desk of Mrs. Buda Brown, sole woman member of the government.

Immediately across the floor on the desk of Mrs. Rupert Haggen, CCF member for Grand Forks-Greenwood, were two vases of flowers, one from the Victoria CCF women's association and the other from Mr. and Mrs. Rod McLeod of Victoria.

Male cynics say there'll be a competition in hats soon.

UNIFORM LAWS: Sources say the new highway traffic regulations to be brought in this session will be designed to attain uniformity in traffic laws across Canada.

It is felt that there will be less accidents if traffic regulations across the country are basically the same.

It is also stated that the maximum penalties for errant motorists will be increased in order to cut the accident-rate.

'Poor Relation' Artists Getting Better Break

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Boris Roubakine judges the work of 15-year-old Valerie Byers, 245 Foul Bay Road, leading Grade 1 piano student in B.C. last year.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Young Canadians interested in the arts are receiving more encouragement but only "up to a point," says Swiss-born pianist Boris Roubakine.

[illegible]

The trouble is that "students are encouraged as long as they are striving for medals and scholarships," but when they go out on their own, "everybody is interested [illegible] in the new scholarship contestants."

[illegible]

"It's very refreshing," the pianist smiled. "If sometimes you hear candidates who are not quite up to the standard, you also very often hear some real musicians, and some of them are here."

Hungarian Couple To Be Wed Today

The first wedding among Hungarian refugees in Victoria will be celebrated this afternoon at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

[illegible] will become Mrs. [illegible] at 2:30 p.m.

The couple grew up together in Hungary and escaped from the country together. They have been in Victoria since [illegible].

They have been living in the immigration building with [illegible] of their countrymen and women, but immigration officials hope to find them other accommodation following a two-day honeymoon.

A small reception will be held in the immigration building following the ceremony.

Serve Hot Soup To TV Guests

It seems most of our readers are owners of television sets but I am not one of them. In consequence frequent requests [illegible] snacks to be served during TV programs. Well, as long as this comparatively cool weather lasts I can't think of anything better than a bowl of hot nourishing home made soup. And so it is I want to feature this morning a completely different version of a recipe which ran in this column about two weeks ago. This one comes from Mrs. C. C. G. of Royal Oak and it is excellent.

SCOTCH BROTH

One quarter pound Scotch barley (large grain); ¼ pound dried peas; ½ pound lamb (the best end of neck); 2 leeks; 2 medium carrots; 1 medium turnip; 1 young spring cabbage, [illegible] parsley [illegible] for [illegible] salt. Now I have no fight to find with that old-country recipe except for the 'handful' of parsley. It all depends how big or how small your hands are. Anyway the more parsley you throw in the better because as you and I know, it is a very good source of vitamins. To continue with the making of this soup (sorry I digressed). Soak barley and peas overnight. Cut up lamb, cover with water, add salt, bring to boil and simmer for 1 hour. Chop the two carrots and turnip into small pieces.

Chop the leeks and cabbage (personally I would grate them but I'm not criticizing) and mix them all together in a bowl. Add this mixture to the barley and peas and stir in. Let the whole thing boil gently for one hour. At the end of the hour add the chopped parsley and the one remaining grated carrot. And the broth will be ready in another fifteen minutes. Is it ever good?

And if for one reason or another your family has not eaten very much during this Saturday or Sunday, how would [illegible] soup with something [illegible]

BROILED WIENERS

(Or Frankfurters)

Take as many wieners as you need for your guests. Drop them into boiling water and simmer for five to 10 minutes. Split and broil with the following stuffing—oh, I could go for one right now.

BROILED STUFFED WIENERS

Six wieners, split lengthwise but with one side attached; 6 strips of bacon; 3 cups of soft breadcrumbs; 2 tablespoons chopped onion; salt and pepper; melted butter or margarine to bind. Mix all ingredients well together and spread on the wieners (how do you spell the word?). Having stuffed each, wrap with bacon, fasten with toothpicks and broil under medium heat, turning frequently. After bacon is crisp and brown serve piping hot.

And here's another simple idea.

SAUSAGE BISCUITS

(makes about 16 small ones)

Two cups packaged biscuit mix; milk or water; 16 small cocktail sausages, cooked. Mix biscuit preparation according to directions on package. Roll out to ¼ inch thickness and cut into squares about 3 inches square. Place a cooked sausage on each and fold over the corners of dough or rather the two opposite corners of the square. Bake in hot oven 450 degrees about 15 minutes.

Talking of sausages [illegible] remember [illegible] with a [illegible] more digestible.

AN APOLOGY. It was unpardonable on my part to let that Christmas card address (for used cards, that is) appear in this space as it did. Far be it from me to blame the readers who sent it in that way. As if I didn't know that Newcastle-on-Tyne is not in County Durham. So sorry, but such mistakes under heavy pressure are unavoidable.

A LOVELIER YOU

HAIR GROOMING. When first introduced some women found hair sprays too heavy and discontinued application never to try again. That could now prove a loss to the hair's manageability.

Sprays are improved to the point where there is a suitable one for most every type of hair. Those containing lanolin can benefit as well as groom dry or wispy [illegible]. Gentle nonoily preparations offer the best control for stubborn or lank tresses. If used as a setting lotion, still other formulas help to train the hair. Just a dash of the right one can make the difference between a groomed and a tousled head.

What's your hair problem? You will find a way to overcome it in my 16-page booklet, Rule Your Waves. Advice includes beauty treatments for oily, dry and normal hair, ways to manage unruly locks, how to add [illegible] highlights, tips on cutting, permanents and styling, grooming tricks. Domestic Service Is A Thing of the Past

OTTAWA—Nobody wants to do housework any more. The faithful Tessies and Minnies who scrubbed and peeled potatoes in the homes of our childhood are gone and few see any likelihood of their returning. Here are some of the reasons why.

For years, since about 1850, we manned our kitchens mainly with immigrants from Europe. [illegible] women from France, Poland, Germany, Austria and elsewhere took the low wages and long hours of work for granted until they could get something better.

[illegible] wage paid to Tessie and Minnie was $5 for an 80 to 90 hour week.

Why?

2. The hours of domestic work are long and unpredictable [illegible] are constantly [illegible] demands that [illegible] some other day.
3. Factory work and many other jobs offer persons paid vacations, a definite quitting time and regular hours.

More Breeding, Less Bathing

American Women Bathe Too Often for Elegance

MILAN, Italy — It seems [illegible] elegance do not seem to go together so American women can be [illegible] washed but never elegant.

That's the opinion of one of the last of the international dandies, Maurice de [illegible]

[illegible] American women [illegible] smell [illegible] they bathe so much [illegible]

"To attain elegance a woman must spend her childhood in Paris, go to school in London to acquire manners and finally—to finish the job—live in a grand palace in Rome."

The over-bathed, antiseptic American woman was accused of being "eternally brushed and lacquered — of freezing her clothes."

But when society [illegible] Iceland [illegible] as far as women in America are concerned [illegible]

After all, said Mr. Teillard, elegance is less necessary in America than it is in Europe.

"Maybe elegance is not even in the spirit of democracy," he said. "Perhaps that is the reason why Americans are afraid of elegance." [illegible]

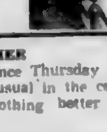
TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther



By BRUCE LOWTHER

This writer had a new experience Thursday night—turning off the set earlier than usual in the certain knowledge that there could be nothing better than what had gone before.

The reference is to Playhouse 90's "Miracle Worker," in which Teresa Wright played the spirited woman who taught Helen Keller how to live, and 12-year-old Patty McCormack, previously known as the little murderess in "Bad Seed," lived the Keller role.

The suspense built to a terrific climax, where the girl realized there was a world around her—a climax which packed more emotional punch than any movie or TV show this writer can remember.

"It's to look at while we listen to the radio."

"Miracle Worker" gave many people their first hint as to how the blind, deaf and dumb live. The moral is that Playhouse 90 must never be missed—next week, Mickey Rooney is a ruthless TV comedian, with Mel Torme as his brother and Edmond O'Brien as his fed-up press agent.

CBC's $1,000,000 Radisson program, first series filmed by the national network, debuts tonight. For sports fans, a "must see" is the only appearance of Montreal Canadiens on CBS this season. Jackie Gleason's Honeymooners go musical again, and good films are "Western Union" and "H. M. Pulham, Esq." Details are listed below.

* * *

TV BITS: Reports that Gordon Reid has decided not to return to Victoria as executive assistant at CHEK-TV and CKDA are not correct. The matter still is under discussion.

Video tape, the film-recording equipment which is expected to eliminate most 'live' shows eventually because it's cheaper, already has appeared in a regular series. Truth or Consequences is being taped a day in advance of telecasting . . . $64,000 Challenge is trying to pep up ratings by using silent film stars. Jackie Coogan, Mack Sennett, Gilda Gray, Rod LaRoque and Jesse Lasky want to appear, but Mary Pickford and Buster Keaton have vetoed TV . . . A hint of Playhouse 90's success is that over-worked Robert Montgomery wants his show extended to 90 minutes next season.

Bone Cancer Fear

A, H-Bomb Tests Not Dangerous To Humans—Yet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Scientists report that all the A-bombs and H-bombs exploded to date equal the energy of 50,000,000 tons of TNT. This is the equivalent of 2,500 Hiroshima-type bombs.

The discosure came in a Columbia University report on research which said bombs having a total energy equivalent of 35,000,000,000 tons would need to be detonated before the "average" world-wide concentration of radioactive strontium in human bone reached the danger level. This tonnage would include the bombs already detonated.

Radioactive strontium, potentially the most dangerous of radioactive materials in nuclear bomb "fall-out," could cause bone cancer if it accumulated in sufficient amounts in human bone. It can get into the body as a result of eating contaminated vegetables and milk products.

WORLD SURVEY

Three scientists described a survey of strontium content of human bone made at 17 stations in various parts of the world.

Five of the points were in Europe, six in North America, four in South America, one in Africa, and one on the island of Formosa.

The scientists said that as of autumn, 1955, the world-wide average strontium content in man was "about 0.12 micro-microcurie per gram of calcium," or about one ten-thousandth the maximum permissible concentration. Strontium strengths are figured in comparison with calcium, which it resembles chemically.

But they added that "a few values as high as 10 times the average have been obtained."

Their charts did not clearly bring out the location of individual cases having as high as 10 times the average, but individual cases well above the average were listed in such places as Houston, Tex.; New York; Puerto Rico; Germany; Denmark; Switzerland; Venezuela; Vancouver, B.C., and Formosa. All these areas had values at, or below average, however.

The scientists indicated that dietary factors might help to account for individual variations from the average; also differences in calcium content of soils.

But they also said individual variation constitutes a "most important problem" and that "large uncertainties" still exist as to the maximum concentration of strontium which individuals might receive at long distances from atomic test sites.

Goldstream

Solution Sought In Land Tangle

Action was initiated by city council yesterday to unsnarl a legal tangle over ownership of Goldstream lands and to transfer the property, or part of it, to the provincial government for park development.

Council approved submission of a private bill to the legislature at its present session to transfer Goldstream Park to the province for use as a Class A park under the Forest Act.

It empowered Mayor Percy Scurrah to vary the terms to include or except the mudflats area, depending on whether or not the provincial government is interested in that area.

It also empowered him to delete reference to the transfer being conditional on establishment and maintenance of a Class A park, should the government consider this trust too stringent.

ALTERNATE MEMBER

And it approved appointment of two alternate members to the Greater Victoria Water Board, for a meeting of the board Feb. 12 at which it will decide whether or not the part of the lands it holds should be transferred with the rest.

The Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association leased its Goldstream clubhouse site from the city for several years. City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady told council, under the impression that the land belonged to the city. Actually, he said, the site is on the lands held under agreement for sale by the water board.

James Island Marine Cable Renewal Set

One of the two underwater electric cables through which the B.C. Electric serves the Canadian Industries plant on James Island will be renewed this year.

BCE engineers say the three-quarters of a mile length of 12,000 volt cable will be run out on the sea floor from Saanichton spit to the James Island shore at midsummer. It will replace a similar voltage cable which has given service for 42 years.

Line crews will become sea-going for the task, using a cable drum and braking arrangement aboard a tug, as was done in the laying of power cable to Chatham Island.

It is unlikely that any attempt will be made to raise the veteran cable from its sea bed, the work involved outstripping its salvage value.

STEADY GROWTH

Norway's population was listed as 3,478,000 at the start of 1957, up 200,000 since the last census in 1950.

BRIDGE QUIZ

Good partners can make very effective use of a part score when they have hands that approach the slam zone; bad partners find that owning a part score often causes them to miss a slam, and sometimes causes them to bid one for which there is no play. With both sides vulnerable, North and South are 60 on score. The bidding goes:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	3 ♠	Pass

What would you bid with each of the following North hands?

(a)	(d)
♠ Q 9 6 4	♠ Q 9 7 6
♡ A Q J 2	♡ A J 7 2
◇ 7 3	◇ K 4
♣ Q 8 7	♣ 9 8 6

(b)	(e)
♠ Q 9 6 4	♠ Q 10 4 3
♡ A Q 8 7	♡ A 10 7 4
◇ 3	◇ 7 2
♣ Q 8 7 5	♣ A 7 6

(c)	(f)
♠ Q 10 4	♠ Q 10 7 6
♡ A Q 8 7 3	♡ A Q 10 7 3
◇ 6 4 3	◇ 6
♣ J 9	♣ Q J 5

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

(a) Pass. Your three-heart bid has failed to raise any enthusiasm in South, and there is grave likelihood of two or three losers in diamonds and clubs.

(b) Bid four spades. Your singleton diamond is apt to be tremendously valuable if partner has a good two-suiter. If he has two losers in clubs, he will pass.

(c) Pass. Your hand shrieks of too many losers in diamonds and clubs, not to mention the possibility that you may lose a trick in both majors.

(d) Bid four diamonds. The diamond king doubleton, plus your first-round control of hearts, are apt to be exactly what your partner is looking for.

(e) Bid four clubs. Partner has been slam-hunting not knowing you have two aces. You should show him the second one, especially holding only two diamonds.

(f) Bid five spades. The danger in this hand is that partner may have two club losers. But five must be safe, for he cannot have risked game by bidding over two spades if his hand includes four losers in hearts and clubs.

South's actual hand was: S A K J 8 5; H K; D A 10 9 8 5; C K 2. As his bidding hinted, the diamond fit is the key to a slam.

The grackle, an all-black bird as big as a robin, is sometimes called the "crow blackbird."

Egg-Mad Budgie Lays 60 a Year

TORONTO (CP) — There's a budgie bird here heading for a nervous breakdown.

Tweetie, a pet budgie belonging to Diane Papsin, 12, has laid more than 60 eggs in a year.

But many hours of patient sitting haven't produced any offspring.

When Tweetie lays an egg she hops on her swing and chirps ecstatically. Then she tries to hatch it.

No dice.

After days of sitting, she flies into a tantrum and pecks the egg to pieces.

"We feel sorry for Tweetie," said Mrs. George Papsin. "She tries so hard."

Tweetie has amazed budgie experts. She has been known to lay as many as four eggs a week. Once, she turned 'em out three days running.

Budgie breeder W. H. Gooderham said the birds sometimes go on an egg-laying bender. There's nothing that can be done, he said, except get the eggs out of the cage so the bird won't die of frustration.

Boy Demands Own Ransom

PORTLAND (AP) — Police Thursday took into custody 16-year-old Harold Bailey Adcock of Kennewick, Wash., who is accused of sending a $2,000 ransom note to his parents.

Officers said the note demanded $2,000 and warned if police were notified "your boy will be killed."

Juvenile authorities said the youth told them he wanted the money to finance a trip to California.
